Series calendar reveals diverse talents, programs

By Becky Bell

Five programs remain in Wartburg's 1972-73 Artist Series, according to Artist Series Director Gerald D. Tebben. The season opened with the Oct. 10 performances of "Kiss Me, Kate."

Upcoming events in the Artist Series will include concerts by the First Moog Quartet, violinist Franco Gulli, and bass-baritone Simon Estes. Mezzo-soprano Salli Terri and Karl Herreshoff, guitarist and lutenist, will perform a "Dialogue with Guitar and Lute." A performance by Lado, a 50-member dance and folk ensemble from Yugoslavia, will also be a part of this year's series.

John Raitt starred in "Kiss Me, Kate", a revival of the famous musical which opened 24 years ago on Broadway and ran for 1,077 performances. Well over 2,000 persons viewed the two performances in Neumann Auditorium, which Tebben described as being "by far the biggest and most expensive attraction" in this year's Artist Series.

Tebben said he also expects a large crowd for the Artist Series production of Gershon Kingsley's First Moog Quartet, Sunday, Oct. 22. Four electronic Moog Synthesizers will be used to provide music in the concert scheduled as a Homecoming activity.

AFTER THE MOOG QUARTET the next Artist Series performance will be "Dialogue with Guitar and Lute" Nov. 2. Salli Terri, a Grammy-award-winning singer, will team up with instrumentalist Karl Herreshoff in one of the "most unusual" programs of the series, said Tebben.

Bass-baritone Simon Estes, acclaimed as one of the world's outstanding operatic singers, will perform in Neumann Auditorium Jan. 14. This is one of his last United States performances this season, Tebben noted. He will be leaving for a European concert tour shortly after his performance at Wartburg.

A special Valentine's Day treat will be the Artist Series presentation of the Yugoslav National Dance and Folk Ensemble Feb. 14. The group's name, Lado, means love.

Closing the season will be a concert by Franco Gulli, acknowledged as one of the greatest violinists in the world today. The Grand Prix du Disque award winner, making one of his rare performances in the American Midwest, will be at Wartburg April 5.

PROGRAMS FOR THE ARTIST SERIES are made up by a committee consisting of four faculty members, three student members, and a Waverly resident. President John W. Bachman appoints the faculty members while student representatives are appointed by the student body president.

The Artist Series is financed in part by money from the general activity fee. Of the $97 paid yearly by students into this fund, $9 is used for the series, said Tebben. Faculty members also buy activity tickets at a slightly higher price than what students pay. The Artist Series is given $12.50 for each faculty member purchasing a ticket.

With an annual talent budget running between $18-25 thousand for the Artist Series, the money from the general activity fund does not cover the entire cost of the series, Tebben asserted. The balance is obtained by selling tickets for each event to persons in Waverly and other Iowa communities.

TEBBEN SAID, "The support of the community as well as from students and faculty has made it as successful as it is."

"The Artist Series is not a money maker for the college," Tebben explained. "By and large, it just about breaks even."

John Raitt, who plays Petruchio in "Kiss Me Kate," signs programs in the auditorium lobby following the afternoon matinee.

Faculty vote change in attendance policy

Attendance policy for Wartburg's convocations has been changed by a faculty vote, according to Mr. Herman Diers, secretary of the convo committee.

Attendance for both students and faculty is now "expected" instead of required. Diers explained that the essence of the word change to expectation means that roll will not be taken and no sanctions will be given for non-attendance.

"Convocations play an important part in the educational process of the college. It is important that people on the front lines of thinking and action in the contemporary world be involved in the life of our campus." Diers said.

"We are concerned that education here not be provincial but in touch with the life and activity of the world. Therefore, it is crucial that people and programs that the convocation schedule make possible continue to be part of campus life and education."

Diers reiterated his position with a personal conviction that support is essential if convocation programs are to continue.

He pointed out that the change in policy makes possible new versatility in the type of speakers and programs. The committee plans fewer convos of broad appeal while scheduling other person who "have something important to say, but are not of interest to the whole campus community."

These speakers will be under the auspices of the convocation program but are not termed major convocations. Consequently, they will take place in Voecks Auditorium.

Dr. Frank Kelly

Kelly to examine education's future

Dr. Frank Kelly, an expert in the educational field, will address a 7:30 p.m. convocation on Tuesday, Oct. 17, in Voecks Auditorium. His topic will be "The Future of Education."

He will explore the question of whether colleges are the best way to achieve the goals of higher education. In a style reminiscent of Ivan Illich, he will propose alternate avenues to education.

Kelly, vice president and director of Continuing Education of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, has held a variety of occupations in his lifetime. He has been a speech writer for President Harry Truman, a Boston University professor, a novelist, and a war correspondent, among others.

The next all-college convo, according to Convo Committee secretary Herman Diers, will be Wednesday, Oct. 25. Mrs. Lynn Cutler, a women's rights crusader from Waterloo, will discuss the role of women in society.

Concert to feature Cole Porter medley

The Wartburg Community Symphony Orchestra will open its twentieth season with more music from the pen of Cole Porter. The concert will begin at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 15 in Neumann Auditorium.

Sunday night's annual "Pops Concert," under the baton of Dr. Franklin Williams, will be a joint effort with Wartburg's Castle Singers, directed by Dr. James Fritschel, also appearing on the program.

The program will be made up entirely of songs from Porter's most famous musical comedies and movies, including "Rosalie", "Born to Dance", "Jubilee", "Can-Can", "Anything Goes", "Leave it to Me", "Kiss Me Kate", and "Gay Divorcee".

Students will be admitted on their activity cards while others may purchase tickets at the box office that evening.

Tax dependent students eligible for food stamps

By John Becker

College students who were claimed as tax dependents by their parents were previously ineligible to receive food stamps. A recent Federal District Court decision in Pennsylvania, however, declared the policy unconstitutional.

An earlier court decision made it no longer necessary for all members of a household to be related.

Students living off-campus who meet the following requirements are now eligible for the food stamp program:

1. Households must have cooking facilities with which food may be prepared for home consumption.

2. If a member of a household possesses a credit card which provides unlimited income in the name of a person who is not a member of the household, the entire household is rendered ineligible.

3. The following resources are taken into account when applying:

a. Liquid resources which are readily negotiable including cash on hand or in a checking or savings account or in other savings institutions such as stocks, bonds, time certificates, etc.

b. Non-liquid resources including real property (buildings, land, etc) and personal property (boats, snowmobiles, etc.).

c. A household is allowed to own two cars but the value of the second may not exceed $1500.

4. The combined monthly income of all household members, except those who have a commitment to contribute only a portion of their income, cannot exceed the following: 1 person $170; 2 persons, $222; 3 persons, $293; 4 persons, $360.

Applications for food stamps are to be made at the Bremer County Social Services Office, 107 3rd St. S.E. Anyone with questions should contact seniors Amy McGrath or Pat McClintock at the Social Work Office, Luther Hall, Room 105.

Homecoming draws near

Final plans are being prepared for next weekend's Homecoming activities, according to the Homecoming Committee.

"Spear the Statesmen" buttons proclaiming Homecoming are now on sale at Meyer's Drug Store, Stauffer's Drug, the Bookstore and from Resident Assistants.

Homecoming Bonfire, sack races, egg toss, and "Yell Like Hell" Contest will begin at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 20.

Tickets for both the Homecoming Dance on Saturday at 9:30 p.m. and Kastle Kapers on Friday at 7 and 9 p.m. will be available all next week in the supper line, or from Joe ext. 369 or Jean or Shirley at ext. 293.

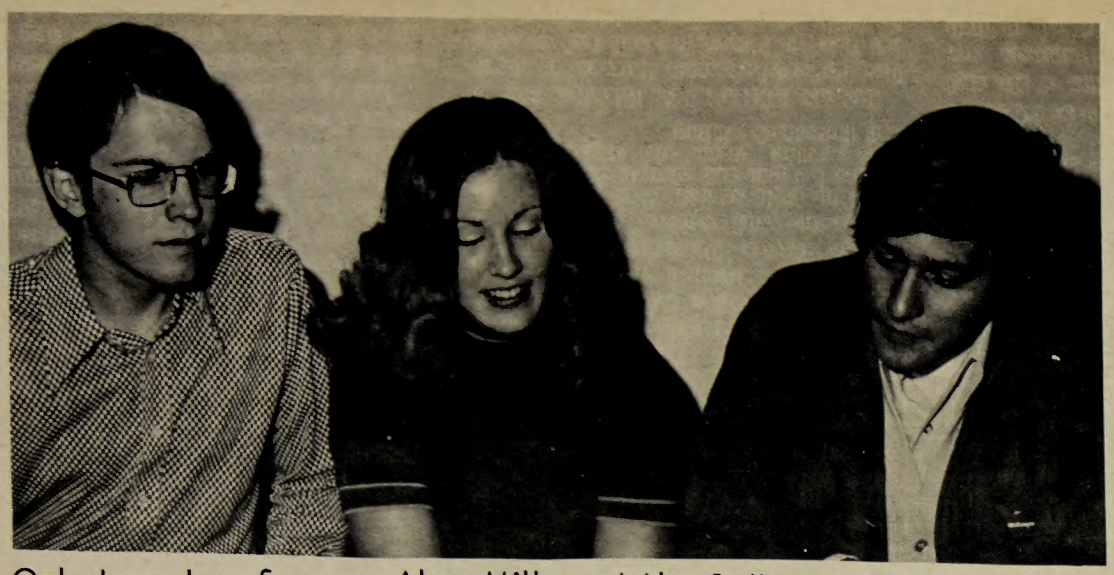
Students interested in the "cook-it-yourself" steak fry just prior to the dance should call the Waverly Golf and Country Club at 352-9802 before Friday afternoon, Oct. 20 for reservations.

Also on Saturday, the cafeteria will serve a smorgasbord luncheon in conjunction with the Renaissance fair to be held from immediately after the parade until 5 p.m. the same day.

Theologian to preach

Dr. George W. Forell, director of the School of Religion at the University of Iowa, will speak at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Waverly on Sunday, Oct. 15, as part of the church's year-long centennial observance.

Author of a number of books and magazine articles, Forell is a well-known lecturer and has been at Wartburg on several occasions.



Ombudsmen Jerry Swanson, Alana Miller and Alan Rudie consider some student complaints they will later investigate. The trio were recently appointed to the position formerly held by one student and an assistant.

Senior Sharleen Leonard, a biology major, is presenting a paper today at the North Central branch meeting of the American Society for Microbiology at Brooking, S.D.

Entitled "Isolation and Characterization of Non-swarming Variants of Proteus mirabilis," the paper is the result of research conducted this summer by Miss Leonard as a participant in a National Science Foundation Undergraduate Research program at Iowa State University in the Department of Bacteriology.

Art excursion

Art students and Chrysalis members are planning an excursion to Des Moines Wednesday, Oct. 18.

Claes Oldenberg's pop art exhibit at the Fisher Community Center will be the feature of the trip with an additional sidetrip to a private gallery.

Ombudsmen

Sounding board

Editors Note: This column was written as a joint effort by the three newly-appointed Ombudsmen The trio will attempt to make periodic reports and answer questions through this column.

Last week, Student Senate approved a proposal to divide the Ombudman's position into three offices; Ombudsman for Academic Problems, Ombudsman for Financial Aid and Ombudsman for Health Services.

There were a number of reasons for doing this:

1. It would insure greater student input into policy and procedural decisions made in each of these areas. A student holding one of these positions would have more time to develop expertise in his particular area, thus guaranteeing that he would be a more qualified participant in decision making.

2. More frequent and in-depth contact could be developed between the Ombudsmen and the students encountering problems in one of these areas.

3. Wartburg students too frequently are unaware of the services and programs available to them. Each Ombudsman would be responsible for publicizing services available in his particular area.

Senate also approved the appointment of senior Jerry Swanson as Ombudsman for Health Services, sophomore Alana Miller as Ombudsman for Financial Aid and senior Alan Rudie as Ombudsman for Academic Problems.

Swanson can be reached at room 121, Clinton Hall, ext. 225, box 70. Miss Miller is living off-campus and is temporarily without a phone; her box number is 1834. Rudie is living in room 2, Cornils House (Coed Dorm), ext. 378, box 305. He was selected as Head Ombudsman.

There will also be one of us in the Senate office from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

We would like to encourage students with problems they don't know how to solve to use the Ombudsman service.

Musical fails expectations

By Patti Brower

A pair of genial gangsters, played by Jon Kimbell and Ken Waller, and a delightful musical score by Cole Porter, highlighted John Raitt's Oct. 10 production of "Kiss Me Kate" on the Wartburg campus.

Introducing Wartburg's 1972-'73 Artist Series, "Kiss Me Kate", is a revival of composer, Cole Porter's most successful musical. From its first opening night in 1948, "Kiss Me Kate" played to enthusiastic crowds for 135 weeks in New York.

"Kiss Me Kate" is actually a "play within a play". The comedy's action revolves around a recently divorced actor and actress couple who have the leads in a road show production of Shakespeare's bawdy and lively, "Taming of the Shrew".

THE MATINEE PERFORMANCE (attended by this reviewer) began clumsily. Though it's true the first scene depicts an informal rehearsal, many significant lines were, nontheless, swallowed and the transitions from the dialogue into the musical numbers sounded unnatural.

Aspects of Wednesday's production which this reviewer deemed superfluous and in poor taste, were the addition of allusions to contemporary topics such as Archie Bunker, bra-burning (Women's Lib) and a spoof from "Laugh-In." Though significant and (or) humorous in their own right, it is questionable whether they have any place in this musical.

AS THE TEMPESTUOUS, man-hating but gorgeous, Katherine in "Taming of the Shrew", Gaylea Byrne was modestly convincing. With mock gentility and a "clothed dagger" smile she thrilled the audience with "I Hate Men." With much commendable praise to her credit, Miss Byrne performed quite in keeping with the accomplished actress she really is.

THE ENDING, too, came off feebly. Katherine's transformation from a saucy, acid-tongued shrew to a meek, subservient wife confessing, "I Am Ashamed that Women Are So Simple," was too abrupt to be really convincing.

Between an unfortunate weak beginning and ending, "Kiss Me Kate" did manage to gain some momentum of interest and provoke laughter in a good many viewers.

Chiefly responsible for dramatic success in this production, were the burly hooligan gansters.

The "gum chewing, tough guy", stereotype represented by the pair seemed overworked, yet was surprisingly and enthusiastically executed.

This reviewer wished that the costumes, though colorful as a clown's motley suit, would have been more authentic representations of Shakespearian dress.

IF AT TIMES SENSITIVITY and professionalism were lacking, one scene early in the play was somewhat redeeming in a serious sense. This scene portrayed Raitt and Miss Byrne together in Lilli's dressing room as they reminisce and waltz to "Wunderbar."

In short, this reviewer thought "Kiss Me Kate," was good but not great. The cast just didn't seem to have "their heart in it."

Thumbing becomes project of junior psychology major

Senior Dave DePue demonstrates his technique in hitching a ride. His travels last summer culminated in an independent psychology project.

Hitchhiking traditionally has been for the lover of freedom, the carefree, the adventuresome, but for one Wartburg College student it became an independent study course in psychology last summer.

Who gives the thumbers rides and why was the focus of a 22-day, 6,000-mile hike through the western United States and southwestern Canada for junior Dave DePue.

He and a friend, Gary Blobaum, made the trip in 67 cars, trucks and vans, just three-tenths of one percent of the 20,214 vehicles they encountered. DePue left Waverly July 22, toting a 60-pound backpack, and he returned August 13, 15 pounds lighter and "happy to be home."

HE SOON FOUND that hitchhikers are viewed more sympathetically by peers or those who have felt the call of the road themselves. Most rides were given by students, though other motorists who stopped represented a cross section of American life: from a navy structural engineer to the unemployed.

When asked why they had stopped, 22 of the 67 drivers answered, "I've hitched before." Other replies varied from "You needed a ride" to "I'm a Christian" to "I like young people." Perhaps the most surprising find came when eight drivers told the hikers that they never pick up "short-hairs because they're not trustworthy." Both Dave and Gary sport long hair.

Just over four times as many men offered rides as women. Based on a count taken every 10 minutes while thumbing, it was discovered there was a similar ratio of men to women who didn't stop.

Getting a ride, DePue says, "depends on how hard you hitch. If you stand up, hold your arm straight up, thumb out and use a sign, if you really try for a ride, your chances are pretty good of getting one."

THE PAIR must have worked hard because out of 216 hours on the road, just 83 were spent thumbing. However, there were a couple of waits which might have discouraged the less hardy.

The two thumbed for 21 hours in breezeless, 110-degree Fernley, Nev., before getting a ride, and an uncomfortable combination of cold, rain and mosquitoes forced them onto a bus at Lake Louise, Alberta, Canada.

"Iowa hitching," Dave said, "is some of the best. There are so few hitchers."

Dr. John C. Craft, chairman of Wartburg's Psychology Department, was adviser for the independent study project.

Wartburg College Community Merit Awards honored three recipients last Tuesday at a Community Recognition Dinner.

They are E.T. Koopman, president of the Lutheran Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Waverly, the Rev. Homer A. Larsen, pastor of Nazareth Lutheran Church in Cedar Falls and Miss Glenda Mabrey, long-time guidance director in the Waterloo public school district and now director of a "Follow Through" program which deals with children from deprived homes.

COMMUNITY MERIT AWARDS are presented annually by Wartburg's Board of Regents to persons "...who through the years have demonstrated their interest in the community through personal involvement in worthwhile activities."

Koopman has been with Lutheran Mutual Life Insurance since graduating from Wartburg Normal College in 1931. He worked his way up through the ranks until becoming president of the company in 1965. Milestones in his career include work in the accounting, actuarial and policyowners service department, office manager, assistant secretary, vice president and member of the Board of Directors.

His service to Waverly has been long and distinguished.

Miss Mabrey, who has been a guidance director in the Waterloo school system since 1941, was to have retired this year, but she has assumed her present position with "Follow Through."

After graduating from the University of Iowa with a master's degree in child development, she became guidance director at East Junior High in Waterloo and later established the Visiting Teacher Program there. After the East and West Waterloo school districts were combined in 1959, she organized and became the director of the Guidance Service for the entire district.

PASTOR LARSEN, who has been at Nazareth in Cedar Falls since 1953, also is radio pastor for Christian Crusaders, a Lutheran radio program which originates in Waterloo and is aired throughout the midwest.

He is a member of the Inter-Church Relations Committee of the American Lutheran Church, the Stewardship Committee of the Iowa District of the ALC and the Cedar Falls School Board.

Bus service gets funds

Student Senate has appropriated $125 for a Wartburg-Waterloo student bus service to begin Friday, Oct. 20, according to Student Body President, Jerry Lawrence.

The bus will leave at 6 p.m. and return at 11:30 p.m., making stops at UNI and College Square Shopping Center. Cost will be 75c for one round trip ticket. Tickets can be purchased in Fuch's Lounge of the Student Union.

"The purpose of this service," said Lawrence, "is to provide students who do not have other means of transportation with an opportunity to get off-campus."

There will be Friday and Saturday evening runs at the outset and the service will expand upon student demand. Lawrence is asking for suggestions on the time schedule which at first will be arbitrary.

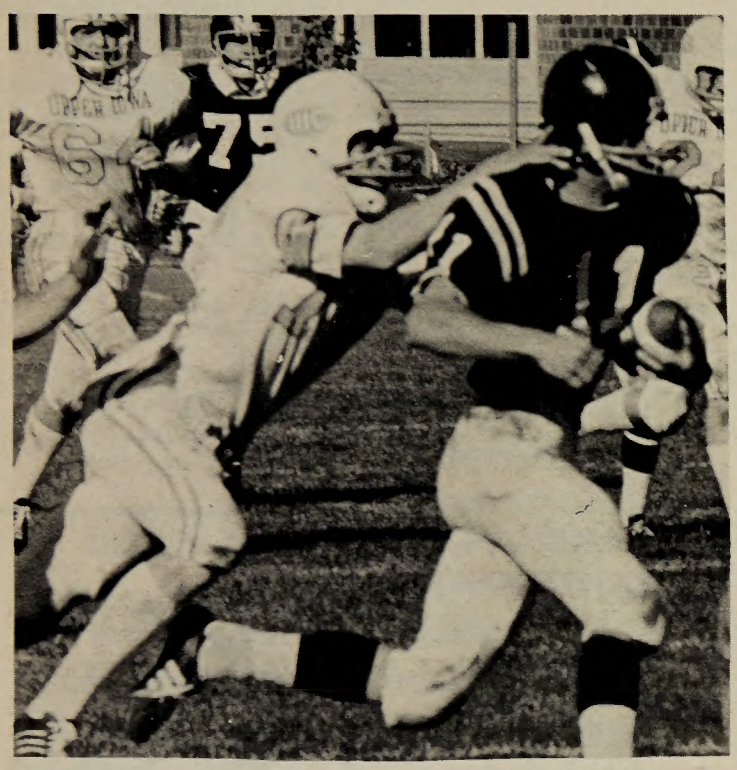
Knights to regroup forces against Simpson Redmen

"It was the type of game that when it was over it was hard to believe you had lost, but it's in the record book. All we can do now is get ready for the next one," said Coach Lee Bondhus in recalling his squad's second straight Iowa Conference loss, 21-20 to Upper Iowa last weekend.

Now the Knights' must regroup forces for Simpson's Homecoming tomorrow at Indianola. Both Wartburg, 2-2 overall, and Simpson, 1-2-1, are still looking for their first Iowa Conference win, though the Redmen do have a 0-0 tie with UIC on their ledger.

Wartburg heads into the Simpson game with two straight losses despite having "one of our best games of the year" Saturday. The Knights dropped a 21-20 decision to UIC last week though they outdowned the Peacocks 22-7, outgained them 346 yards to 175 and ran 46 more offensive plays.



An Upper Iowa Peacock gets a stranglehold on a Knight ball-carrier last Saturday. UIC inched past Wartburg in a 21-20 victory.

The Knights will be at full strength for the first time in three games when they go to Indianola.

Sophomore linebacker Conrad Mandsager has recovered from a sprained ankle suffered at Buena Vista; junior cornerback Joe Rinaldi will try it again after injuring and re-injuring a knee against Eureka (Ill.) and Buena Vista; and senior safety Tom Jenkins is ready after playing only part-time against UIC because of an ankle sprain sustained in practice.

Sophomore Mike Witt has finally won the fullback job after fighting it out with junior Fred Jensen all season.

Squad shows progress

By Leighton Hepker

A road dual and two home meets in eight days are on tap for Wartburg's Cross Country team, beginning tomorrow. The Knights, 2-1 in dual action, will be at Simpson tomorrow for a four-mile run at the Indianola Country Club before returning home to host a double dual with St. Olaf and Luther on Oct. 17 at 4:30 p.m. and a dual with William Penn Oct. 21 at 11 a.m.

ALTHOUGH COACH John Kurtt's squad has not been a contest winner, Kurtt admits, "I've taken a lot of pride in the amount of work and the progress made by them."

The results of last weekend's triangular showed UNI the winner over Wartburg and Dubuque. Wartburg, however, defeated Dubuque, 15-45 with 5 runners placing 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5. Kurtt was encouraged by the performance of his young squad in that run.

Rich Twedt of UNI was the over-all individual winner with a time of 25:52. Senior Marty Rathje continued his running placing second with a time of 26:00.

LOOKING AHEAD to this week's meet with Simpson, Kurtt admitted that Simpson is not a strong Cross Country team and have had difficulty in fielding a squad. Kurtt regards Simpson as being a warmup for coming meets with Luther and St. Olaf.

Luther and St. Olaf, both boasting strong Cross Country teams, have defeated Wartburg already this season at the Les Duke Invitational. The Knights will have their goals set to better their times and finishes against these two.

As an added note, Coach Kurtt has also announced that the District Meet which had an undetermined site will be held on the Wartburg course.
